

'Relate to your business with your head, to your family with your heart.'

Awards categories and 2011 winners:

Maddy Corson Award

(fewer than 25 employees)

Maddy Corson, sponsor of the award to small business, and winner KC Hughes of LT's inc., Portland.

Leon Gorman Award

(25-plus employees)

AlliedCook Construction, Scarborough, won the Leon Gorman Award for large businesses; the Cook family, Dan, David, L.A., and Matt accepted.

Shep Lee Award

(community service)

Winner of the Shep Lee Award for community service, Halcyon Blake of Halcyon Yarn, Bath, and Adam Lee, Shep Lee's son.

with your heart.'

Many among the 300-plus who attended the 2011 Maine Family Business Awards, produced by the Institute for Family-Owned Business, remember those words by keynote speaker Howdy Holmes.*

So act now, take a first step and gain recognition for your family-owned business. Nominate your company-or another firm-today and be there in 2012 when the Institute for Family-Owned Business celebrates its 13th year: Monday, May 14, 5:30 p.m., Marriott Hotel in South Portland.

The Awards also generated these comments:

"lots of energy"
 "...great networking opportunities..."
 "work hard-survive..."
 "reassured by hearing of similar struggles"

For Maine Family Business Awards entry criteria, judging, contacts, and more, go to www.fambusiness.org. Or, contact the Institute office at 207.798.2667

*Howdy Holmes is a former Indy 500 race car driver and current CEO of family-owned JIFFY Mixes.

The Institute for Family-Owned Business is a 501(c)(3) non-profit organization that provides unique knowledge, resources and networking opportunities that enable Maine's business-owning families to prosper and achieve their fullest potential. The Institute assists firms through seminars, workshops, networking. The website also carries information about the Institute's programs and membership.

In partnership with Verrill Dana, LLP, Attorneys at Law